

Harvard Medicine News

January 14, 2019

ZIP Code or Genetic Code?

When it comes to disease and health, which is more powerful—nature or nurture?

The Pressure's Off

A protein responsible for maintaining blood pressure and kidney function twists into many shapes. Researchers have finally managed to hold it still.

A Tool to Combat Bullying

Communication and intervention are the keys to a new tool designed to help schools reduce bullying of LGBTQ students.

A Defining Moment of Harmony

Eliana Kirsch finds magic in the integration of medicine and music.

EXTRAS

Video: Therapeutic Innovation

Exploring the possibilities of biomedical research

STAT: First Opinion

An unborn child and a devastating diagnosis

Subscribe | Contact Us | Unsubscribe

HARVARD
MEDICAL SCHOOL

Published by Harvard Medical School, Office of Communications and External Relations
© 2019 The President and Fellows of Harvard College